Shift in Sentiment

"There has been a noticeable shift in sentiment — where once the market rewarded good news and largely overlooked setbacks, it now sharply penalises even minor earnings misses," Sanjeev Prasad, co-head, Kotak Institutional Equities, said. "Crucially, investors believed gains could be made across the board regardless of valuations; however, this outlook has clearly changed."

Boost for Agri Economy

"AI is not going to replace humans anytime soon," Huang said. "There's not one piece of artificial intelligence that can replace 100% of someone. But it is the case that everyone can take advantage of artificial intelligence to elevate our capabilities. So, the use of AI as a tool that elevates our abilities to make us all superhuman." The Nvidia CEO also pointed to the high possibility that India's agricultural economy will benefit from AI. "The vast majority of the country is in the industry of agriculture," Huang said.

Nykaa's Focus Stays on Own Broader Network, says Nayar

Co will not get into additional categories for the sake of quick commerce

Pranav Mukul & Digbijay Mishra

New Delhi | Bengaluru: Falguni Nayar, founder and chief executive of beauty and fashion retailer Nykaa, said quick commerce has impacted offline channels such as general and modern trade within the personal care category, and that the Mumbai-based company would not get into multiple categories of quick commerce "just for the sake of it" ultra-fast delivery. "The industry is developing in a manner... where quick commerce is taking demand from traditional neighbourhood stores," she said in a virtual interview with ET, ahead of launching the second edition of Nykaaand, the company's beauty and lifestyle festival, where it collaborates with brands for new launches.

Nayar's comment on the fast-growing quick-commerce channel came at a time when various retail for mats — including e-commerce — is impacted by the rapid rise of platforms like Blinkit, Zepto and Swiggy Instamart besides new entrants such as Flipkart Minutes, offering deliveries as fast as 10 minutes.

Beauty is one of the fastest growing segments on quick commerce, but Nayar said her focus remains on enhancing speed across the country through her own network.

"Quick commerce can cater to specific needs, but our focus remains on a more extensive network across the country, not just a few cities," she said adding that the jury is still out on the quick commerce model on its sustainability at a unit economics level beyond the revenue being generated on these platforms.

Nykaa, which doesn't sell its owned brands on Blinkit, Zepto or Instamart, is running a 10-minute delivery pilot in Mumbai's Borivali suburb, ET reported on October 9.

"The reality for us is that we will not get into additional categories for the sake of quick commerce and what we will do well is in our category where we have long term interest and a long-term position to play," she said.

A note from Elara Securities earlier this week said distributors are unable to recover arrears from kirana stores because of the high negative impact caused by digital platforms. "...emergence of quick-commerce companies could make a bigger dent (on kirana stores), as buying for impulse vertials and products may see strong growth via quick-commerce platforms, moving away from kirana stores," it notes.

Nayar reiterated that Nykaa would address consumer demand on delivery once there is a certain size and scale, and that the networks are built in a certain way to enable even a much faster delivery.

Nykaa has been offering same-day delivery for orders placed before 12 pm and next day deliveries are done for those made after 12 pm in four metros.

As much as 85-90% of orders on Nykaa get delivered the next day, while 10-15% are done the same day, ET reported earlier this month.

Airtel Africa Q2 Profit Falls 65% on Forex Impact

Our Bureau

New Delhi: Bharti Airtel's Africa business reported a 65% fall in second quarter consolidated profit at $48 million compared with $138 million a year earlier, due to foreign exchange headwinds, particularly currency devaluation in Nigeria.

Consolidated revenue for the quarter ended September 30 fell 26% to $1.21 billion from $1.24 billion in the same period last fiscal year due to currency devaluation.

For the first half of the fiscal year, the telecom operator reported a profit of $79 million compared with a loss of $10 million in the same period of FY24, while revenue declined 8.7% to $2.37 billion from $2.62 billion.

The company in a statement said its first-half profit after tax of $9 million was impacted by $15 million of exceptional derivative and foreign exchange losses (net of tax), arising from the depreciation of the Nigerian naira during the period. "A substantial increase in fuel prices across our markets and the lower contribution of Nigeria to the group after the naira devaluation contributed to a decline in EBITDA margins to 45.8% from 40% in H1'24," Airtel Africa said. The company said it board declared an interim dividend of 2.6 cents per share, an increase of 9%, in-line with the progressive dividend policy of the company.
