Russia, Ukraine Seal Grain Export Deals with Turkey, UN

Move to help release grain from Black Sea ports, ease a global food crisis

Istanbul: Russia and Ukraine signed separate agreements on Friday with Turkey and the United Nations clearing the way for exporting millions of tonnes of desperately needed Ukrainian grain as well as Russian grain and fertilisers - ending a worrisome standoff that had threatened food security around the globe.

UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres & Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan

Russian Defence Minister Sergei Shoigu and Ukrainian Infrastructure Minister Oleksandr Kubrakov signed separate deals with UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres and Turkish Defence Minister Hulusi Akar.

The ceremony was witnessed by Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan.

"Today, there is a beacon on the Black Sea," Guterres said. "A beacon of hope, a beacon of possibility, a beacon of relief in a world that needs it more than ever." "You have overcome obstacles and put aside differences to pave the way for an initiative that will serve the common interests of all," he said, addressing the Russian and Ukrainian representatives.

Ukrainian and Russian military delegations reached a tentative agreement last week on a UN plan that would also allow Russia to export its grain and fertilisers. Mykhailo Podolyak, an adviser to Ukraine's president, stressed on Friday that Ukraine and Russia would sign separate agreements. "Ukraine does not sign any documents with Russia," Podolyak said on Twitter, adding that his country would sign an agreement with Turkey and the UN, with Russia signing a separate "mirror agreement."

Most exporters of wheat, corn and sunflower oil, but Russia's invasion of the country and naval blockade of its ports have halted shipments. Some grain is being transported through Europe by rail, road and river, but the prices of vital commodities like wheat and barley have soared during the near five-month war.

The deal makes provisions for the safe passage of ships. It focuses on the establishment of a central center in Istanbul, to be staffed by UN, Turkish, Russian and Ukrainian officials, to run and coordinate the process, Turkish officials have said.

Ships would undergo inspections to ensure they are not carrying weapons. Podolyak insisted that no Russian ship would escort vessels and that there would be no Russian representative present at Ukrainian ports. Ukraine also plans an immediate military response "in case of provocations," he said.

Guterres first raised the critical need to get Ukraine's grain, fertiliser production and Russia's grain and fertiliser back into world markets in late April during meetings with Russian President Vladimir Putin in Moscow and Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy in Kyiv. AFP

Russia Slashes Key Interest Rate by 150 Bps

Moscow: Russia's central bank on Friday cut its key interest rate to below the level seen before President Vladimir Putin sent troops into Ukraine in February. The Bank of Russia cut its key interest rate to 8.5% from 9.5%, pointing to a "further slowdown in annual inflation." But it also warned that "the external environment for the Russian economy remains challenging." AFP

COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING JAN 6 ATTACK ON US CAPITOL

US Capitol Riot Probe Slams Trump Inaction, Urges Accountability

Says Trump should be held accountable for a gross dereliction of presidential duty

Washington: The House committee probing the assault on the US Capitol laid out a searing, prime-time indictment on Thursday of Donald Trump's refusal to halt or condemn the violence and instead he should be held accountable for a gross dereliction of presidential duty.

A mob of Trump supporters storm the US Capitol Building on January 6

Committee chairman Bennie Thompson, speaking at the televised finale of a series of public hearings, said Trump "recklessly blazed a path of lawlessness and corruption" as he sought to overturn the results of the 2021 US election.

The Mississippi congressman, addressing the committee virtually because he has Covid-19, said there must be "accountability" for what he called an attack on democracy. During a two-and-a-half-hour hearing, lawmakers presented testimony from White House aides who said that Trump watched the Capitol attack unfold on television and ignored their repeated pleas to tell his supporters to leave.

"From the comfort of his dining room he watched on TV as the attack unfolded," said Adam Kinzinger, one of two Republicans on the panel. "He sent tweets that inflamed." Kinzinger said. "For three hours he refused to call off the attack."

'States were Okay with Removal of Exemptions on Food Items'

ET Q&A

The states had completely backed removing exemptions on many packaged food items. Revenue Secretary Tarun Bajaj said, explaining the case for the levy. He said most of the issues with GST have been solved and the government will look to address the pain points. If any more. A retroactive review will, however, take some time. Bajaj told ET in an interview. He said tax revenue growth was robust and the government should be able to meet its fiscal deficit target. Edited excerpts from an interview with Anuradha Shukla & Deepshikha Sikwar.

Revenue Secretary Tarun Bajaj

There has been a huge uproar about the removal of GST exemptions on many household items. Will there be a review of the decision?

First, let me explain the issue of packaged food items. Many prominent brands, like ITC, have not given up actionable claims on their brands to avoid taxes. There was an arbitrage created. The industry had also written to us. States had also pointed out about the revenue loss because of this situation. A number of these items were taxed in states under the value-added tax regime. States were completely for this removing exemption.

Some states like Kerala have said they will not impose tax on these items.

Businesses with a turnover of less than Rs 40 lakh do not pay any tax. States are bound by subordinate legislation on rates, exemptions, and rules as per the constitutional amendment.

The GST has completed five years now. Is there a need for a review of the law? What's next?

The GST Council has in the last 2-3 meetings taken very important decisions. Council has been able to resolve most of the issues that the tax faced. Council has corrected inverted duty to a great extent. Exemptions have also been corrected to a great extent.

Rationalisation of the rates is something that is left out for which we may have to wait for some time. We now need to remove any pain points that are left and felt by businesses. We have also asked the industry to tell us about the pain points so that we can look at them. And, then we should let the GST stabilise. Not change the rates too often.

Revenues have remained robust. What is your expectation going forward?

Over the last one and half years, we have worked on easing compliance. Revenues from income tax are very robust. After a 4% increase last year, I was expecting growth to revert to 14-15% but we are witnessing close to 37-38% growth.

You see the momentum continuing...

I am looking forward to very good growth in direct taxes. GST, on customs duty, we have sacrificed revenues on edible oils, pulses, and some more items because of the reduction, but will try that customs duty will also be somewhere near our budget estimate. Central excise duty collections will definitely be lower. But the income tax side this year, capital gains tax collections may not be as high. We have not done the exact arithmetic, but I think we should stick to the fiscal deficit.

The government raised the import duty on gold. Has there been any assessment of imports and any need to temper them?

If you are asking me in that sense (importing imports), we have inflationary impacts. For instance, crude and some commodities. We can't do anything about it. On gold, we cannot do anything. Gold was something we thought we could put some burden on.
